Celebrating 90 Years of Expertise – Radiation Protection in the Next Decade

Time: 17–18 October, 2018

Place: Stockholm City Conference Center, Norra Latin, Stockholm

This year, ICRP and ICRU celebrate their respective 90th anniversaries. This is due to both of the organisations having officially launched their work as of the second International Congress of Radiology, held in Stockholm back in 1928.

To celebrate these anniversaries, the Swedish Radiation Safety Authority (SSM), in collaboration with ICRP and ICRU, hereby invite you and other members of your organisation to participate in a two-day colloquium in Stockholm. The 90th Anniversary Colloquium will highlight 90 years of radiation science and radiation protection, with a focus on what is on the horizon in terms of developments in the sciences and the evolution of society. Speakers are invited and the programme will include several panel sessions for interesting discussions and future perspectives.

More information

Registration is free, but note that advance registration is required. Places are limited. Information about the 90th Anniversary Colloquium, for example the programme, speakers, etc., will be presented on www.stralsakerhetsmyndigheten.se/en/icrpicru90

Save the date, see you there!
